

Content Distribution Network

Unicast over the Internet

The CDN contains many servers, hosting all available content, ready to deliver to the users on-demand.

This system appears to the users as one big black box

Each user has a dedicated TCP/UDP connection over the internet

Each user is able to request different content, at different playback points.